I've always followed the rule that anything worth doing is worth doing excessively.

~Robert M. Parker, Jr.

Part of life is to live it, and enjoy it, and seize the moments that you find particularly pleasing.

~Robert M. Parker, Jr.

My personal philosophy is, you can be sure of nothing.

~Robert M. Parker, Jr.

No sane man can afford to dispense with debilitating pleasures; no ascetic can be considered reliably sane.

~Robert M. Parker, Jr.

I'm an anti-industrial kind of guy.

~Robert M. Parker, Jr.

These are the people who do studies that your carry-out Chinese meals are saturated in fat. I'd just like to meet them! I mean, what do they do for pleasure?

~Robert M. Parker, Jr.

The finest glasses for both technical and hedonistic purposes are those made by Riedel. The effect of these glasses on fine wine is profound. I cannot emphasize enough what a difference they make.

~Robert M. Parker, Jr.

The first famous winemaking consultant was the late professor Emile Peynaud, who reigned over Bordeaux throughout the 1940s, 50s, 60s and 70s.

~Robert M. Parker, Jr.

Fettuccine Alfredo is dangerous for your health.

~Robert M. Parker, Jr.

I'm a common-sense kind of guy.
