Knowledge of languages is the doorway to wisdom.

~Roger Bacon

Reasoning draws a conclusion, but does not make the conclusion certain, unless the mind discovers it by the path of experience.

~Roger Bacon

Cease to be ruled by dogmas and authorities; look at the world!

~Roger Bacon

It is easier for a man to burn down his own house than to get rid of his prejudices.

~Roger Bacon

The strongest arguments prove nothing so long as the conclusions are not verified by experience. Experimental science is the queen of sciences and the goal of all speculation.

~Roger Bacon

To ask the proper question is half of knowing.

~Roger Bacon

For the things of this world cannot be made known without a knowledge of mathematics.

~Roger Bacon

Argument is conclusive, but it does not remove doubt.

~Roger Bacon

A man is crazy who writes a secret in any other way than one which will conceal it from the vulgar.

~Roger Bacon

A little learning is a dangerous thing but none at all is fatal.

~Roger Bacon

Mathematics is the gate and key to science.

~Roger Bacon

The conquest of learning is achieved through the knowledge of languages.

~Roger Bacon

All science requires mathematics.

~Roger Bacon

Argument is conclusive, but it does not remove doubt, so that the mind may rest in the sure knowledge of the truth, unless it finds it by the method of experiment.

~Roger Bacon

Experimental science is the queen of knowledge.

~Roger Bacon

Vacuum stands and remains a mathematical space. A cube placed in a vacuum would not displace anything, as it would displace air or water in a space already containing those fluids.

~Roger Bacon

... mathematics is absolutely necessary and useful to the other sciences.

~Roger Bacon

The calendar is intolerable to all wisdom, the horror of all astronomy, and a laughing stock from a mathematician's point of view.

~Roger Bacon

All science requires mathematics. [Editors' summary of Bacon's idea,

not Bacon's wording.]

~Roger Bacon

One man alone had really known the sciences, namely, Robert, Bishop of Lincoln.

~Roger Bacon
