Multimedia? As far as I'm concerned, it's reading with the radio on!

~Rory Bremner

Politics now is rather like going into Starbucks for a coffee.

~Rory Bremner

In a more intellectually rigorous age, I wouldn't be talked about as a satirist at all. I would just be a topical comedian.

~Rory Bremner

It is almost impossible to say the name of Thai prime minister Yingluck Shinawat without adding 'give a dog a bone'

~Rory Bremner

When you consider what Tony Blair was saying about liberty, human rights and that sort of thing, it would be terribly revolutionary to sell the speeches he and Jack Straw made in 1994.

~Rory Bremner

I had an Edinburgh, middle-class childhood and a public school education.

~Rory Bremner

Now I'm instantly nervous about the demands of doing a weekly column.

~Rory Bremner

I am just fascinated by this reassurance from a menacing figure. It is rather frightening.

~Rory Bremner

Tony Blair has always said he will be judged by history. Now Alastair Campbell is history we await his judgment.

~Rory Bremner

I used to do my Nelson Mandela voice to blag restaurant tables in Cape Town. It rarely worked. Now what a great city that is.

~Rory Bremner

When George Bush finally leaves the White House, the satire industry will briefly join the rest of the economy in recession. It will certainly be the end of an era.

~Rory Bremner

British politics is more nuanced. Part of the problem with New Labour is that they are a moving target.

~Rory Bremner

I've no idea what they make of me. People usually don't recognise themselves in an impression.

~Rory Bremner

Just when exactly does the Millennium begin? Some say 1999, some say 2000, and some say 2001. You wait a thousand years for one, and three turn up at once.

~Rory Bremner

My mum called me scatty because I could never sit still. But there was no sense I was suffering from a medical condition as such.

~Rory Bremner

People may say that what I do is very clever, but it's not really at all. It's not Swift.

~Rory Bremner

I'm much more used to the TV shows, which are demanding to write and perform but very fulfilling.

~Rory Bremner

William Hague, the world's favourite hairline.

~Rory Bremner

My first public impression was my French teacher, Derek Swift.
