It is better to travel hopefully than to arrive. Arrival often brings nothing but a sense of desolation and disappointment.

~Rosamunde Pilcher

Life is so extraordinary. Wonderful surprises are just around the most unexpected corners.

~Rosamunde Pilcher

Writing is work, but it's also a compulsion, and once you get your characters on paper, you can't abandon them. You have to respond to them.

~Rosamunde Pilcher

Happiness is making the most of what you have, and riches is making the most of what you've got.

~Rosamunde Pilcher

It was good, and nothing good is truly lost. It stays part of a person, becomes part of their character. So part of you goes everywhere with me. And part of me is yours, forever

~Rosamunde Pilcher

She put out her hand and touched his forearm, as she would have touched some piece of porcelain or sculpture, just for the sheer animal pleasure of feeling its shape and curve beneath her fingertips.

~Rosamunde Pilcher

And the wicked thing is, that when we're really upset, we always take it out on the people who are closest and whom we love the most.

~Rosamunde Pilcher

The greatest gift a parent can leave a child is that parent's own independence.

~Rosamunde Pilcher

Things happen the way they're meant to. There's a pattern and a shape to everything...Nothing happens without a reason...Nothing is impossible...(Page 180).

~Rosamunde Pilcher

It was good and nothing good is ever lost.

~Rosamunde Pilcher

It was better not to get too close to another person. The closer you got, the more likely you were to get hurt.

~Rosamunde Pilcher

I wasn't good enough. I had a little talent but not enough. There is nothing more discouraging than having just a little talent.

~Rosamunde Pilcher

There's a war on. We don't know how anything's going to end. We just have to grasp each fleeting moment of joy as it whizzes by.

~Rosamunde Pilcher

Grief is a funny thing because you don't have to carry it with you for the rest of your life. After a bit you set it down by the roadside and walk on and leave it.

~Rosamunde Pilcher

She believed, of course ... because without something to believe in, life would be intolerable.

~Rosamunde Pilcher

They will come, not to paint the bay and the sea and the boots and the moors, but the warmth of the sun and the colour of the wind. A whole new concept. Such stimulation. Such vitality.

~Rosamunde Pilcher

I'm getting too elderly to travel the length of the country for a free hangover.
