I never know what I'm going to do for the Post next. Two weeks ago I had a piece on Homeland Security. This is one of my pig ongoing projects. How unprepared we are for a terrorist attack.

~Sally Quinn

... Washington is, for one thing, the news capital of the world. And for another, it is a company town. Most of the interesting people in Washington either work for the government or write about it.

~Sally Quinn

I had cottage cheese for lunch and a glass of wine when I got home tonight.

~Sally Quinn

The football season is like pain. You forget how terrible it is until it seizes you again.

~Sally Quinn

I think, certainly in the more civilized societies, women's roles are growing in power all of the time.

~Sally Quinn

Its always in the second administration when things start to go sour. They circle the wagons.

~Sally Quinn

Women will have all the power one day anyway. It's just a matter of time.

~Sally Quinn

We're newspaper junkies; I can't imagine life without a newspaper.

~Sally Quinn

Last week I did a piece for Style on advice to Laura Bush about how to help her husband. This week it's religion. It just depends on what I find interesting at the moment.

~Sally Quinn

I was brought up by an Episcopalian father and Presbyterian mother in nondenominational Army chapels all over the world and never really had much religious experience.

~Sally Quinn

Every poll shows that most journalists are Democrats.

~Sally Quinn

We live in such a noisy world that we need to stop and just let things happen. Let it grow.

~Sally Quinn

Religion is something that you need to do in silence.

~Sally Quinn

That's what I've decided I am. A seeker of wisdom and truth.

~Sally Quinn

I do think that many religious people have enormous doubts.

~Sally Quinn

Everyone gets meaning in different ways.

~Sally Quinn

Most of the people who live in Washington come from other places and you can learn something from them.

~Sally Quinn

The important is not what you believe but how you behave.

~Sally Quinn

It is only in the fundamentalist religions that women are relegated to second class. Radical Evangelicals, Muslims, and Jews all have the same view of women.

~Sally Quinn

I think that obviously humans find it very difficult to believe that there is no there there. So they created these stories and myths to give their lives some meaning.

~Sally Quinn

This morning in the Washington Post there was a statistic about how 85% of Americans are Christians.

~Sally Quinn

I first came on the scene during the Johnson years and that crowd was out all the time enjoying themselves. Nixon wasn't particularly social but a lot of the people in his administration were.

~Sally Quinn

Social climbing and power climbing -- the two are often synonymous -- are what make Washington run. ... If there are more than two people together, if there are three, one of them is climbing.

~Sally Quinn

I would rather live in McCain's world than Obama's. But I believe that we live in Obama's world.

~Sally Quinn

The Europeans have fallen away from religion and the church while the rest of the world is seemingly more religious. I don't know how to explain it.

~Sally Quinn

One of the reasons the Europeans don't like the Muslims is because they are religious. Americans like the fact that they are religious. They just don't like the form it takes.

~Sally Quinn

I think the Catholic and Protestant churches have become very stagnant.

~Sally Quinn

Those who are religious or who have any beliefs have so much to choose from.

~Sally Quinn

So many of the problems we have today are because people don't respect the beliefs of others.

~Sally Quinn

I now consider myself quite religious and spiritual although that sounds like a terrible cliché.

~Sally Quinn

Europe is endearingly old fashioned in its secularism.

~Sally Quinn

Newspapers don't write enough about serious religious issues.

~Sally Quinn

How unprepared we are for a terrorist attack.

~Sally Quinn

Everyone seems to be searching and yearning for answers whatever they may be. And that ends up being some kind of spiritual or religious belief.

~Sally Quinn

My feeling is that a newspaper should serve its readers and it just seems to me that given what is going in the world, people are hungry for something.

~Sally Quinn

When we stop and reflect things begin to happen and sometimes we get the essence of God when we are just quiet.

~Sally Quinn

Silence is deeply important in all of our lives.

~Sally Quinn

When you say you don't get religion, you're just saying that you don't get organized religion.
