I've discovered that every time I've reached a milestone I think I'm there, but there's another there waiting for me.

~Sara Benincasa

The biggest strength is being able to have perspective. Get the distance, and it enables you to be able to laugh at yourself.

I used to think that having lots of friends meant that you were happy. That's really not true. Having the right friends means that you're happy.

~Sara Benincasa

One of the best practices in the manual of human existence is to assist people who need help when you can safely do so. The best people help those who need help.

~Sara Benincasa

Happy to me is not what I thought happy was. Happy is actually better, because it includes room for sadness. A definition of success must leave room for failure, because it's part of it.
