Success is a label that the world confers on you, but mastery is an ever-onward 'almost.'

~Sarah Lewis

We thrive not when we've done it all, but when we still have more to do.

~Sarah Lewis

Mastery is in the reaching, not in the arriving.

~Sarah Lewis

To reach an audacious goal, we sometimes benefit from having it lie just beyond our grasp.

~Sarah Lewis

Pain is not a punishment. And pleasure is not a reward. You could argue that failure is not punishment and Success is not reward. They're just failure and success. You can choose how you respond.

~Sarah Lewis

Play allows us to maintain curiosity while learning.

~Sarah Lewis

Mastery is in constantly wanting to close the gap between where you are and where you want to be.

~Sarah Lewis

Coming close to what you thought you wanted can help you attain what you never dreamed you could.

~Sarah Lewis

The pursuit of mastery is an ever-onward almost.

~Sarah Lewis

Completion is a goal, but we hope it is never the end.
