Your inability to see yourself clearly is what's keeping you alive.

~Sarah Silverman

I looked up and saw the shape of a heart made by the silhouette of Ben Affleck and Matt Damon kissing.

~Sarah Silverman

I do love poop. I can't help it. The heart wants what it wants. I enjoy being clever and pithy and political, but nothing's going to get me like dumb stuff.

~Sarah Silverman

We need to stop telling girls they can be anything they want when they grow up. Because it would have never occurred to them that they couldn't.

~Sarah Silverman

People are always introducing me as Sarah Silverman, Jewish comedienne. I hate that! I wish people would see me for who I really am â€” I'm white!

~Sarah Silverman

Jews, black people - any people who are hated or who have suffered, either as individuals or as a people - use humour. It is a survival skill.

~Sarah Silverman

They've got great parents; I'm just trying to be the fun uncle.

~Sarah Silverman

I hope the Jews did kill Christ, I'd do it again in a second.

~Sarah Silverman

Drew Friedman isn't just a brilliant artist. He takes you to a place. He takes you back in time. He makes you smell the stale cigarettes and cold brisket and you say, thank you for the pleasure.

~Sarah Silverman

I like talking about things that are taboo, because it makes them not taboo anymore.

~Sarah Silverman

Everybody blames the Jews for killing Christ, and the Jews try to pass it off on the Romans. I'm one of the few people who believes it was the blacks.

~Sarah Silverman

I commend you on all you've done for PETA, wrestling the one-eyed trouser snake with your bare hands, gently cuddling it in your arms, and nurturing it back to health.

~Sarah Silverman

I have no religion. But culturally I can't escape it; I'm very Jewish.

~Sarah Silverman

I am diagnosed with not having enough insanely-addictive drugs coursing through my body.

~Sarah Silverman

I really think everything is fair game.

~Sarah Silverman

~Sarah Silverman

When God gives you AIDS - and God does give you AIDS, by the way - make lemonAIDS.

~Sarah Silverman

Women don't ask to be raped, but there are some that are asking to be motorboated

~Sarah Silverman

I'm all sentimental. I've probably been ruined by romantic movies, but I really do believe in love. I've experienced it, I've had it, so I know it's real.

~Sarah Silverman

And we're just all made of molecules and we're hurtling through space right now.

~Sarah Silverman

Guess what, Martin Luther King? I had a dream, too.

~Sarah Silverman

Don't forget, God can see you masturbating. But don't stop. He's almost there.

~Sarah Silverman

People say, like, "I love when you smile because part of your mouth goes up," then I never organically smile again.

~Sarah Silverman

You have to be able to laugh at yourself. That's what I tell Asian people all the time.

~Sarah Silverman

I didn't lose my virginity until I was twenty-six. Nineteen vaginally, but twenty-six what my boyfriend calls "the real way".

~Sarah Silverman

That still feels like the most accurate description - I felt homesick, but I was home.

~Sarah Silverman

I don't compromise. I only do the stuff I want to do.

~Sarah Silverman

I mean, I love being with friends and I love kissing and loving someone to pieces. But it's hard to find someone who doesn't ultimately start judging you and your choices.

~Sarah Silverman

Mommy is one of the chosen people â€” and daddy believes that Jesus is magic!

~Sarah Silverman

People who follow their religion to the letter of the law are just silly. I mean, I want to tell Hasidic Jews I promise you, God will not mind if you wear a nice cotton blend in the summer.

~Sarah Silverman

The best time to have a baby is when you're a black teenager.

~Sarah Silverman

I am Jewish and proud of this culturally and ethnically - the ways in which I was born this way and am happy with whom I am.

~Sarah Silverman

You want to make people laugh and by virtue of that please them, but when you're instructed to make people laugh and please them, you're too resentful to do it.

I'm lucky because I intentionally keep my overhead low, and so I can say, "No, thank you."

~Sarah Silverman

In the '80s especially, a lot of comedians felt compelled to stick with what made them famous and those people became caricatures.

~Sarah Silverman

I just don't let that mentality be a part of my world.

~Sarah Silverman

We live in a fun time with so many ways to express yourself, you would be crazy to be a comedian and not check them all out.

~Sarah Silverman

If we can send a person to the moon, we can send someone with AIDS to the moon, and then someday we can send everybody with AIDS to the moon.

~Sarah Silverman

A bull in just about any shop is gonna be a mess.

~Sarah Silverman

One of the greatest things my therapist said to me ... and it really blew my mind in the greatest way, he just said, "Look in the mirror less."

~Sarah Silverman

Traditionally, I have no right to talk about race. I'm white; I didn't grow up in an all-black neighborhood. But the license I see for myself is I'm a member of the world.

~Sarah Silverman

I don't want to be a facilitator for other funny people. It doesn't seem smart for me to be in a comedy and not be funny. My spirit can't take it.

~Sarah Silverman

If I were somebody else looking at my character, I'd be like, "She's beautiful." I'm practicing. I'm not succeeding.

~Sarah Silverman

If I don't do stand-up for two weeks, I get freaked out.

~Sarah Silverman

When you're a comic, it's like being born gay. It's what you want to do every night when your other friends are out at night going to parties.

~Sarah Silverman

It's really stupid to defend your own jokes. That is for other people to do if they choose to.

~Sarah Silverman

Why would I become involved with something that doesn't include everyone? If you're getting married today, it's the equivalent of joining a country club that doesn't allow blacks or Jews.

~Sarah Silverman

I think Jews tend to hold me in fairly high regard.

~Sarah Silverman

I think that whenever a Jew has any kind of notoriety, good or bad, the Jews find it to be good.

~Sarah Silverman

That's not to say that I don't find anything offensive.

~Sarah Silverman

If I have to write by a certain time, I can pull through, but usually I just let stuff happen, hanging out with comic friends - or bringing a basic idea on stage and seeing if it goes anywhere.

~Sarah Silverman

I can't cater to everyone's needs and what they're going to be offended by; that's one freedom I have.

~Sarah Silverman
