A mother is a mother from the moment her baby is first placed in her arms until eternity. It didn't matter if her child were three, thirteen, or thirty.

~Sarah Strohmeyer

I think the only answer is to live life to the fullest while you can and collect memories like fools collect money. Because in the end, that's all you have - happy memories.

~Sarah Strohmeyer

Life is a lease and God is the landlord.

~Sarah Strohmeyer

That's what dessert means to me: a dollop of sweet love in an otherwise cold world.

~Sarah Strohmeyer

He's definitely one of those men you love before you get to know.

~Sarah Strohmeyer

The power of women united, I am again reminded, is an invincible thing.

~Sarah Strohmeyer

We may not get what we want, when we want. But with a bit of perseverance and a lot of patience, we can get what we need.

~Sarah Strohmeyer

Coeur qui soupire n'a pas ce qu'il desire. The heart that sighs does not have what it desires.

~Sarah Strohmeyer

It's the closest I've come to touching immortality, by reading the words of dead people.

~Sarah Strohmeyer

Without risk, we are automatons going through our days with no purpose or meaning. We are safer, perhaps, but we are also, ironically, closer to death.

~Sarah Strohmeyer

Sometimes if you wait too long, it's too late.

~Sarah Strohmeyer

If it's true love, then it will abide. If it was a fleeting crush, then it will turn to dust. Either way, the truth will out.

~Sarah Strohmeyer

As my mother says, your forties are when you finally pay for your past mistakes, the cigarettes and sunburns, the Big Macs and smooth-talking men. She may be right.

~Sarah Strohmeyer

Love doesn't go anywhere when you die, you know. The person passes on, the body withers, but love, it survives.

~Sarah Strohmeyer

The imagination is a wonderful thing; it allows for all manner of undiscoverable sins.

~Sarah Strohmeyer

See that's what people don't get about food. It's never the food, it's the love that goes into making it. That's what's important.

~Sarah Strohmeyer

In fact, a case could be made that worrying about a problem actually prevents you from resolving it, because it deceives your mind into thinking that you're doing something when really you're not.

~Sarah Strohmeyer

Risk is the universe's way of pushing us to become more than what we are. Risk is faith at the edge. Risk is the pulsating nature of life.
