Never too late to learn a language. And the good literature to come with it.

~Sasa Stanisic

I just feel much more secure about whatever I write if I stand with one foot in reality - meaning if the stories I write about have a core of "this actually (could have) happened."

~Sasa Stanisic

Something as radical as a war can only be understood (if at all) through the collaboration of journalists, academia, artists and, of course, people.

~Sasa Stanisic

Writing about a war will always be political writing, no matter what amount of hermetical hide-and-seek or aesthetical operations are involved.
