I had a love for photography, which of course rolled into cinematography.

~Scot McNairy

I think acting has made me very in tune with human behavior and myself as well.

~Scot McNairy

To book commercials, you do something to get to a callback, and once you get to the callback, you've got three minutes to get the people to want to hang out with you for a day.

~Scot McNairy

Not all pictures but some pictures you're like, "Wow, I wish I could be there" or you feel like you are there. I don't know what it is about cinematography.

~Scot McNairy

I really love Andrew Dominik's movies. When you work with someone whose movies you really love and who you have a lot of admiration for, you turn into putty in their hands.

~Scot McNairy

I just want to keep laying down really great, strong characters, and the more I go unrecognized, the better job I feel I'm doing.

~Scot McNairy

I did theater as a kid, more of an after-school program. But every night I would put on a movie and fall asleep to it.

~Scot McNairy

I've been doing independent films for 10 years, but one out of five didn't see the light of day.

~Scot McNairy

In no way do I want to draw attention to myself.

~Scot McNairy

To have three movies coming out at the same time - I probably will never have that again in my life.

~Scot McNairy

I want my career to grow gradually. There's still so much for me to learn. I'm just trying to take these opportunities to get better at what I'm doing.

~Scot McNairy

It's weird that you have to work really, really hard just to be real or normal. Everybody's got their different techniques, but what makes a really good actor is somebody who's really believable.

~Scot McNairy

I guess through my learning disability, through dyslexia, I've always been a visual learner - I take in everything through my eyes.

~Scot McNairy

When you hire somebody, you shouldn't have to tell them [a lot of what] to do; you hire them because you like their work and all you've got to do is tweak them a little bit.
