We were like psychedelic folk combined with Sonic Youth's noise.

~Scott Putesky

I even have a Harmony Rocket and a Stratocaster with a scalloped neck back in Florida.

~Scott Putesky

Nobody seems to play Yamaha electrics, but it's the best guitar I own.

~Scott Putesky

Experimenting with different sounds is great, but when it comes down to it, you're still playing a guitar.

~Scott Putesky

I have about nine guitars in all, so obviously I'm into collecting.

~Scott Putesky

Each member of the band has varied influences, and the same diversity is reflected in our fanbase.

~Scott Putesky

If you make it sound too much like a synth, it will just sound like a guitar part played on a synth.

~Scott Putesky

I just saw metal as another tool for me to use.

~Scott Putesky

What you hear about the band is always going to be more disturbing than any particular song.

~Scott Putesky

It all begins with the initial tone coming from the cabinet, but EQ at the board is very important.

~Scott Putesky

Micing it from two different angles in front of the speaker sounds huge, and it's so simple.

~Scott Putesky

I'd played in about four or five bands before we started up, only a couple of which did club dates.

~Scott Putesky

We're playing the same songs, the same way, that we have for years.

~Scott Putesky

It's great, because different groups of kids can laugh at each other and still enjoy the show.

~Scott Putesky

I'm happy with the way everyone presents themselves onstage.

~Scott Putesky

It's like tabloid news programs that talk about how horrible something is, while at the same time they're glorifying it as their top story.

~Scott Putesky

We're approaching things quite differently this time, but it will still sound like Marilyn Manson.

~Scott Putesky

We'll only be playing four new songs live, but all the material for the next album is basically finished.
