I was a Christian in Creed, but nobody ever asked me.

~Scott Stapp

I hear a thunder in the distance; see a vision of the cross. I feel the pain that was given on a sad day of loss. Only He holds the key: a light to free me from my burden and grant me life eternally.

~Scott Stapp

I wouldn't doubt it if the CIA is behind Alcoholics Anonymous.

~Scott Stapp

The story of my life is profoundly unclear. It is a rock-and-roll story and, at the same time, a story of my walk with Christ. The two are melded together in ways both unpredictable and unsure.

~Scott Stapp

I always believed in God and Christ, but I was in rebellion - trying to make my relationship with God fit into my life instead of making my life fit in with him. I was stubborn.

~Scott Stapp

My problems were not what ended Creed.

~Scott Stapp

You can sell millions of records, be showered with all this love and admiration and still feel despised and unwanted. That's what I felt. I've made a lot of mistakes I'm not proud of.

~Scott Stapp

I'd fired anyone who was involved with Creed. I didn't want anything to do with the music business. The entire press and industry hated me, so what was the point?

~Scott Stapp

I had a psychotic break that was brought on by alcohol and drug abuse.

~Scott Stapp

Creed's sound is my sound.

~Scott Stapp

And it took me, since I was 17 and left home, running from God, to now, as a 30-year-old man, when I honestly feel like I've come full circle and my heart's finally in the right place.

~Scott Stapp

Creed was ended by egos and people wanting to do their own thing and poor decision-making.

~Scott Stapp

I was raised in a climate where I believed in God because I was afraid of going to hell - and I didn't think that was the right way to fall in love with somebody.

~Scott Stapp

I was emotionally and spiritually dried up, so I was just searching for God.

~Scott Stapp

I'm still going to make mistakes, but I don't have any problems with publicly professing my faith now. It just took me a long time to get to the right place in my relationship with Christ.

~Scott Stapp

Strip clubs are the only place the band can go if we want to have a drink. You're left alone because the last thing the people there care about is us.

~Scott Stapp

Sure I hear what people say. But the only opinions I care about are from the fans.

~Scott Stapp

A lot of [my] songs have a sexuality to them, a vibe to them. ... I call it sexy rock and roll.
