The Boogeyman is your conscience. The Boogeyman is the result of your own bad behavior. I love this Boogeyman.

~Sergio Aragones

When you're drawing comics, you get very involved in how the story is going to develop and you spend more time daydreaming on that particular subject.

~Sergio Aragones

The sad events that occur in my life are the sad events that happen to everybody, with losing friends and family, but that is a natural occurrence, as natural as being born.

~Sergio Aragones

Eventually I would like to touch all the genres. I would like to do some detective stories, and I want to do a Western. I would want to do humorous Westerns.

~Sergio Aragones

My best sources are my travels and my collection of National Geographic.

~Sergio Aragones

Suspense is very important. Even though this is humor and they're short stories, that theory of building suspense is still there.

~Sergio Aragones

I think that true horror is accomplished by slowly getting into your brain. The old way is much more scary.

~Sergio Aragones

At the end of the '60s, I was trying to enter the world of comics.

~Sergio Aragones

When sadness happens in the middle of work, I separate my personal grief from my train of thought.

~Sergio Aragones

If the gag is complicated, you spend more time thinking about the way you're drawing it.

~Sergio Aragones

I don't enjoy the boo scare when you're watching a movie and then suddenly there's a big shark on the screen. The only thing they're doing is catching you off guard.

~Sergio Aragones

Comics is a great medium to get a lot of stories out.

~Sergio Aragones

Once you've established where you are, you go to the character and elaborate on expressions and action.

~Sergio Aragones

Freedom is not an individual effort. Yours comes only when you grant others theirs

~Sergio Aragones

The Western, when I do one, will be one long, continuous story.

~Sergio Aragones

If a cat had a halo, it would probably wear it around it's tail. It makes a statement.

~Sergio Aragones

Fortunately, cartooning is not a job. It's something like eating or sleeping.

~Sergio Aragones

I keep very weird hours. I never know when I'm going to get an idea.

~Sergio Aragones

The reason I love comics more than anything else is that the longest story will be just a few pages. With a novel, it takes so many pages to get to one thing happening.

~Sergio Aragones

I have always loved horror very much. I used to write stories for DC's House of Mystery. It was one of my first jobs writing for comics, and I loved it.

~Sergio Aragones

I live in a very small town and now that I've closed down my studio, I'm working at home.

~Sergio Aragones

I'd love to do a whole series of stories and have them collected into books.
