The moon in all her immaculate purity hung in the sky, laughing at this world of dust. She congratulated me for my carefully considered maneuvers and invited me to share in her eternal solitude.

~Shan Sa

I splash my head with ice-cold water and turn to face the mirror. When my image appears I instinctively look away. Is there a truth on the other side that we do not want to see?

~Shan Sa

I envied these women I saw before me, their beauty still intact. Life has its revenge of life. Untimely death is the secret of eternal youth.

~Shan Sa

Happiness is something you lay siege to, it is a battle like a game of go. I will take hold of all the pain and snuff it out.

~Shan Sa

I would like to be a philosopher in ancient Athens and a poet in ancient China.

~Shan Sa

Politicians are better liars than writers.

~Shan Sa

Years have passed and how I am anxiously watching the twilight of my childhood, quietly sinking, never to rise again.

~Shan Sa

would you dare to love me?

~Shan Sa

I succeeded in using my charms like a weapon; I learned to play with other's hearts and to master my own desires.

~Shan Sa

I talk to trees and animals. We have interesting conversations about food, weather, and love. They sometimes can predict the future.

~Shan Sa

To other women the choice of clothes was a form of ingenious exhibition, a shameless seduction. To me, dresses were like a breastplate that I put on to set off to war against this life.

~Shan Sa

Heroes are damned. No mortal conquers Death.

~Shan Sa

I have written too much about lives - I feel I have lived for too long.

~Shan Sa

Tomorrow we will be nothing but earth and dust. Who will remember the love a soldier once knew?

~Shan Sa
