Men are born to sinâ€¦What does matter most, is not that we err, it is that we do benefit from our mistakes, that we are capable of sincere repentance, of genuine contrition.

~Sharon Kay Penman

Autumn that year painted the countryside in vivid shades of scarlet, saffron and russet, and the days were clear and crisp under harvest skies.

~Sharon Kay Penman

We tend to forget at times that it is the little ones, the children, who do suffer the greatest hurt. If we cannot comprehend why certain sorrows are visited upon us, how on earth can they?

~Sharon Kay Penman

I inhale hope with every breath I take.

~Sharon Kay Penman

â€¦she remembered watching a summer sunset from this very spot. Not so long ago; just a lifetime.

~Sharon Kay Penman

Poor Wales. So far from Heaven, so close to England.

~Sharon Kay Penman

...A scar signifies past pain, a wound that did not heal as it ought. But it testifies, too, to survival...(Here be Dragons)

~Sharon Kay Penman

For every wound, the ointment of time.

~Sharon Kay Penman

During the day, memories could be held at bay, but at night, dreams became the devil's own accomplices.

~Sharon Kay Penman

Why is it honesty when a man speaks his mind and madness when a woman does?

~Sharon Kay Penman

There is nothing worse than an enemy with imagination.

~Sharon Kay Penman

Abigail Adams could become my favorite historical sleuth.

~Sharon Kay Penman

A cynic who was still saddened whenever his jaundiced view of mankind was confirmed.

~Sharon Kay Penman

In time of war, the Devil makes more room in Hell.

~Sharon Kay Penman

I'd not want to answer for the lives of other men; not at seventeen, by God's Grace.

~Sharon Kay Penman

I'd just rather not reap a crop every year.

~Sharon Kay Penman

Forget the threat of Hell's infernal flames. The true torture would condemn a man to wait and wait and wait - for an eternity

~Sharon Kay Penman

Men kill for many reasons, they steal but for one-greed.

~Sharon Kay Penman

I should like to freeze in time all those I do love, keep them somehow safe from the ravages of the passing years..."Rather like flowers pressed between the pages of a book!

~Sharon Kay Penman

When does he ever think?" Richard straddled a chair and accepted a wind cup from Raoul. "If he were to sell his brain, he could claim it had never been used.", Chapter 7
