My brokenness is a better bridge for people than my pretend wholeness ever was.

~Sheila Walsh

God has promised that whatever you face, you are not alone. He knows your pain. He loves you. And He will bring you through the fire.

~Sheila Walsh

In these uncertain times, I know 100 percent that I can stake my life on the unshakeable, unchanging promises of God!

~Sheila Walsh

Some people will not understand what the love of Christ compels you to do; do it anyway.

~Sheila Walsh

When our dreams seem to go sour or remain unfulfilled, hopelessness can dominate our lives-or we can hold on with open hands, knowing that we have hope because God is faithful.

~Sheila Walsh

It takes deliberate and continuous effort to carve out time in our overfull schedules to listen to the voice of God.

~Sheila Walsh

The world is not looking for Stepford-type Christians. People are tired of pretense. We struggle with failures; we long for intimacy. So why are we feigning perfection before God and one another.

~Sheila Walsh

The Father is truly the only Promise Maker who is in earnest a Promise Keeper. A promise from God is a promise kept.

~Sheila Walsh

It's my absolute passionate belief that every single human being, man, woman, or child, is aching to find a face-to-face relationship with God.

~Sheila Walsh

Lord God, I long to hear Your voice but not just secondhand through teachers, as wonderful and godly as they can be. I long to hear Your voice firsthand.

~Sheila Walsh

God talks to His people-to each one of us-through His Word, through the counsel of godly friends, and through the Holy Spirit.

~Sheila Walsh

There's not one good thought in me, apart from God. That's the good news.

~Sheila Walsh

I was one of the loneliest people on the planet. You can be incredibly well known and very alone. And that's who I was. I was a well-known person who was very alone.

~Sheila Walsh

But the witness of the substitutionary atonement of Jesus is that God's most difficult promise has been kept.

~Sheila Walsh

I got pregnant and turned 40 at the same time.

~Sheila Walsh

I've never walked to an altar in my life. I gave my life to Christ in my bedroom as a child.
