In New York, I like it when you can get bagels at 3 in the morning.

~Shepard Smith

We don't communicate in full sentences anyway. We don't need all those words.

~Shepard Smith

We are America; we don't torture. And the moment that is not the case, I want off the train.

~Shepard Smith

We have a product for sale called news, and I'm a salesman.

~Shepard Smith

And yet, something inside you is so horrible or you're such a coward or whatever the reason that you decide that you have to end it. Robin Williams, at 63, did that today.

~Shepard Smith

I think there's a certain sense of grounding that comes from not being a rich kid from a media-elite school.

~Shepard Smith

When I make an error, it's a very bad day in my house.

~Shepard Smith

Oh, I don't talk about God.

~Shepard Smith

Working for the Man seemed really good to me.

~Shepard Smith

I've never been in a focus-group meeting. I wonder how many anchors can say that.

~Shepard Smith

I'm not a liberal elite who was educated in the northeast, for example, I'm just a kid from Mississippi.

~Shepard Smith

I come from a place where we feel like we're not represented in the national media.

~Shepard Smith

Everybody comes to the journalist with an agenda.

~Shepard Smith

I enjoy reporting on triumph over tragedy.

~Shepard Smith

I'm a journalist; I run to the fire, that's what we do.

~Shepard Smith

It is troublesome sometimes when people get up in your face in public, you know? And say, 'How could you, how dare you?' Well, they don't know me.

~Shepard Smith

Interviewing politicians and movie stars, you know what you'll get. I like the people-stories better.

~Shepard Smith

That is all the perspective you need!

~Shepard Smith

I've always been fascinated by weather.

~Shepard Smith

I'm fortunate enough not to be poor, and I'm not a bad tipper.

~Shepard Smith

I take the subway to work. I love mass transportation.

~Shepard Smith

I like to cover news when it happens, not five years later.

~Shepard Smith
