None of us come to this earth to gain our worth; we brought it with us.

~Sheri L. Dew

No woman is a more vibrant instrument in the hands of the Lord than a woman of God who is thrilled to be who she is.

~Sheri L. Dew

We no longer have the luxury of spending our energy on anything that does not lead us and our families to Christ.

~Sheri L. Dew

If you're serious about sanctification, you can expect to experience heart-wrenching moments that try your faith, your endurance, and your patience.

~Sheri L. Dew

Motherhood is more than bearing children...It is the essence of who we are as women.

~Sheri L. Dew

I drove a tractor almost as soon as I could reach the pedals.

~Sheri L. Dew

It is simply not for us to judge each other. The Lord has reserved that right for Himself, because only He knows our hearts and understands the varying circumstances and complexities of our lives.

~Sheri L. Dew

As daughters of our Heavenly Father, and as daughters of Eve, we are all mothers and we have always been mothers. And we each have the responsibility to love and help lead the rising generation.

~Sheri L. Dew

The decisions you are making right now and that you will make in the foreseeable months and years will absolutely determine whether you pivot towards the world or towards the Lord.

~Sheri L. Dew

True leaders understand that leadership is not about them but about those they serve. It is not about exalting themselves but about lifting others up.

~Sheri L. Dew

Our challenge is not getting the Lord to speak to us; our challenge is understanding what He has to say.

~Sheri L. Dew

Life, like classical music, is full of difficult passages that are conquered as much through endurance and determination as through any particular skill.

~Sheri L. Dew

No amount of time in front of the mirror will make you as attractive as having the Holy Ghost with you.

~Sheri L. Dew

The last days are not for the faint of heart or the spiritually out of shape.

~Sheri L. Dew

The most effective way to share the gospel is to live it. When we live like disciples of Christ should live, when we aren't just good but happy to be good, others will be drawn to us.

~Sheri L. Dew

Speaking of our unkind labeling of each other with, "she is divorced, she used to be inactive, etc", asked, "Can't we get over this hardening of the categories?".

~Sheri L. Dew

We are here to influence the world rather than to be influenced by the world.

~Sheri L. Dew

No woman who understands the gospel would ever think that any other work is more important or would ever say, "I am just a mother," for mothers heal the souls of men.

~Sheri L. Dew

Few of us will reach our potential without the nurturing of both the mother who bore us and the mothers who bear with us.

~Sheri L. Dew

We don't really know what we believe in or care about until what we believe in or care about is threatened, challenged, or measured.

~Sheri L. Dew

Everything that's important - you can take with you.

~Sheri L. Dew

Look to the Lord and not to the world for your ideas and ideals about men and women.

~Sheri L. Dew

There is one thing the power of God and the power of Satan have in common: Neither can influence us unless we allow them to.

~Sheri L. Dew

The healing power of charity, bestowed by our Father and made possible by the Atonement of Jesus Christ, can make it virtually impossible for us even to feel emotions common to the natural man.

~Sheri L. Dew

Am I the woman I think I am, the woman I want to be? More importantly, am I the woman the Savior needs me to be?

~Sheri L. Dew

No marriage or family, no ward or stake is likely to reach its full potential until husbands and wives, mothers and fathers, men and women work together in unity of purpose.

~Sheri L. Dew

It is possible to be clean in a dirty world.

~Sheri L. Dew

Because again, if Lucifer can make an aberration seem normal- or better yet, evil seem normal, he has made striking inroads.

~Sheri L. Dew

I invite you to consider anew what you know and what you have; what you are here for and where you are going; and how you are going to do what you have come here to do. p 13

~Sheri L. Dew

For the Holy Ghost blesses us with optimism and wisdom at times of challenge that we simply cannot muster on our own.

~Sheri L. Dew

Why can't we resist the urge to second-guess and evaluate each other?...Sometimes I wonder if the final judgment will be a breeze compared with what we've put each other through here on earth. p 225

~Sheri L. Dew

Without the presence of the Spirit, it is impossible to comprehend our personal mission or to have the reassurance that our course is right.

~Sheri L. Dew

There isn't anyone who wants to see me married more than I do.

~Sheri L. Dew

The only way that we may overcome the world is by coming unto Christ. And coming to Christ means walking away from the world.

~Sheri L. Dew

I had a lot of friends who were boys. I played ball with them, but we didn't date. They didn't ask me that much because I wasn't cute enough or because I didn't drink or party.

~Sheri L. Dew

I always felt big and unattractive.

~Sheri L. Dew

There is no greater name for a leader than mother or father. There is no leadership more important than parenthood.

~Sheri L. Dew

You were born to lead as mothers and fathers, because nowhere is righteous leadership more crucial than in the family.

~Sheri L. Dew

Think about what there is to learn from your heritage, good and bad, and about what you want to cultivate and not cultivate.

~Sheri L. Dew

I know how to set an irrigation tube, and I helped with the harvest. I learned the law of the harvest without even knowing I was learning it. On the farm, you learn early that you reap what you sow.

~Sheri L. Dew

The Savior empowers us with His grace, not because we've earned it, but because He loves us perfectly.

~Sheri L. Dew

Happily, though we must each walk through life on our own, we don't have to do it alone.

~Sheri L. Dew

Challenges that tax our faith are usually opportunities to stretch and strengthen our faith by finding out if we really believe the Lord will help us.
