You can be a dreamer, but don't live in your bed.

~Sho Baraka

The more I read the Scriptures I find an overwhelming case of Scriptures being concerned with the poor, outcast, widow, foreigner and marginalized.

~Sho Baraka

Everyone wants to be truth tellers today while never thinking we are the ones who need the truth told to us. It's quite amusing.

~Sho Baraka

Make sure you don't become the very thing you find yourself fighting against.

~Sho Baraka

Hip-hop, you're close to 50. When can we grow up?

~Sho Baraka

I keep people around me that have the freedom to challenge my heart and motive.

~Sho Baraka

The Bible cares about the systems that create oppression. We see this in the Exodus all the way to Jesus' interactions with Zacchaeus and the prostitute in John 8.

~Sho Baraka

I'm in love, with a higher love!

~Sho Baraka

I grew up in a loving household that taught me how to respect others and love God.

~Sho Baraka

I love that Jesus showed He cared while at the same time telling the truth.

~Sho Baraka

I keep my eyes and heart bent toward Jesus, therefore no human response can distract me from the Kingdom agenda.

~Sho Baraka

I don't spend too much time attempting to defend myself against people who seem to have zero desire to have a substantive conversation.

~Sho Baraka

God gave us creation to enjoy it. I believe this is the reason we fight against injustice so that all of creation can experience the beauty of God's goodness and grace.

~Sho Baraka

Keep compassion close to your chest at all times.

~Sho Baraka

Joy and pleasure is at the end of the justice. A right understanding of who God is and who we are in His creation.

~Sho Baraka

I wanted to create an album that spoke all the musical languages I loved.

~Sho Baraka

Get a team of like-minded individuals around you. Understand this is hard work.

~Sho Baraka

Power is intoxicating.

~Sho Baraka

We think everyone but us need the unadulterated truth.

~Sho Baraka

We may never truly see the fruits of the labor.

~Sho Baraka

I pray daily for wisdom on how to serve my kids without words.

~Sho Baraka

My mom used to get involved with the Black Panther activities in Los Angeles. For me it was more about how to view my consciousness on these issues with a biblical framework.

~Sho Baraka

It's true that PC culture has created very little honest dialogue.

~Sho Baraka

I have two boys on the autism spectrum. I don't always know what's best for them. However, I know there is grace for me in this area. I know there are parents in a similar space.

~Sho Baraka

I wanted it to live in all the diverse neighborhoods I've lived in.
