Building a successful life is much like building anything else: it should be thoroughly thought about in advance and then carried through to completion.

~Sterling W Sill

Punctuality is closely related to faithfulness and dependability. Being tardy can be linked to uninterest, apathy, slothfulness and procrastination.

~Sterling W Sill

The best way to improve our lives is to improve our thoughts.

~Sterling W Sill

All temptations can be handled easily when we know how, because no temptation is a temptation at all unless we are entertaining it.

~Sterling W Sill

It is a great paradox - almost everyone wants to improve his circumstances but almost no one wants to improve himself.

~Sterling W Sill

Those who wallow around in the sickness of their immorality and degeneracy get very little joy out of life here and certainly not much promise is held out for them hereafter.

~Sterling W Sill

Satan has no power over us except as we give it to him. God never forces us to do right, and Satan has no power to force us to do wrong.

~Sterling W Sill

Perhaps punctuality is a quality made even more valuable because it is found in so few people. Punctuality is not usually thought of in our day as a major virtue.

~Sterling W Sill

We insist on near perfection in everyone except ourselves. But if our course is questioned we become offended.

~Sterling W Sill

If I were asked to give the best idea of which I am capable, it would be that we should get out of the junk business and then start laying up treasures in heaven.

~Sterling W Sill

You should always have 2 books...the one you're reading and the one you're writing.

~Sterling W Sill

We can cross the rivers of doubt and discouragement on the bridge of faith even before we get to them

~Sterling W Sill

There is one thing more serious than merely to not believe, and that is to not care.

~Sterling W Sill

Fighting is not the best way to win an argument. If carried to its ultimate conclusions, the old idea of "an eye for an eye" eventually ends in making everybody blind.

~Sterling W Sill

One who works twice as hard will have four times as much accomplishment. If he works 3 times as hard he will have 9 times as much accomplishment and 9 times more fun in the process.

~Sterling W Sill

Lack of industry is an attitude.

~Sterling W Sill

We get good grades or poor grades - according to our attitudes.

~Sterling W Sill

The hottest coals of fire ever heaped upon the head of one who has wronged you are the coals of human kindness.

~Sterling W Sill

It is a serious mistake to judge God within the narrow limits of our own understanding and abilities.

~Sterling W Sill

Paul had an almost missionary companion. His name was Demas. Paul wrote his entire history in nine words. He says: Demas has forsaken me, having loved this present world.

~Sterling W Sill

Man is a thinking being; what and how we think largely determines what we are and what we will become.

~Sterling W Sill

The greatest opportunity of our lives is to wake ourselves up and get going. There is so much to be done and so little time to do it. We should impress ourselves with the seriousness of slothfulness.

~Sterling W Sill

We are all human magnets. Our deeds, attitudes and thoughts attract in kind. Gets back with interest exactly what he sends.

~Sterling W Sill

Life begins when we begin and each day we ought to be born again.

~Sterling W Sill

Difficulty is one of the prices that we pay for our blessings.

~Sterling W Sill

Successful people follow successful patterns.

~Sterling W Sill

There is a blueprint for every accomplishment-all we need to do is to know how to follow it. Trial and error is ridiculous after the truth has once been established.

~Sterling W Sill

I know that what I have done I can do again.

~Sterling W Sill

The way of success is not run with seven league boots but step by step, little by little, bit by bit ... with no exceptions allowed.

~Sterling W Sill

There is a fatality about unkept good resolutions. They are simply checks that men draw on a bank where they have no account.

~Sterling W Sill

Wealth is not only what you have but it is also what you are.

~Sterling W Sill

We have one of our greatest human experiences when we get an active idea working in our minds.

~Sterling W Sill

People would rather be praised than criticized but the later may help us make more progress.

~Sterling W Sill

Ancient Chinese custom if you were a guest in one of their homes and you admired some particular thing, they would wrap it up and present it to you as a gift. But isn't that what life does.

~Sterling W Sill

Some intentionally injure others through mocking, sarcasm with no intent to help. Others are trying to help.

~Sterling W Sill

How ridiculous it is to waste our lives experimenting with those things for which we already have the answers!

~Sterling W Sill

If one neglects the laws of learning, a sentence is imposed that he is forever chained to his ignorance.

~Sterling W Sill

When you want knowledge and understanding as badly as you wanted air, you won't have to ask anyone to give it to you.

~Sterling W Sill

One of greatest thieves this world has is procrastination, and he is still at large. Are we aiding and abetting the criminal?

~Sterling W Sill

Most procrastination is largely indecision. Someone has said that "hell is just truth seen too late."

~Sterling W Sill

I suggest...that you develop early in life the habit of retiring and arising early. You remember the advice of Ben Franklin: "Early to bed and early to rise makes a man healthy, wealthy and wise.

~Sterling W Sill

Someone has said that after age forty, each of us pretty much deserves the face he is wearing. He designed it form the inside.

~Sterling W Sill

Planning is the mother of almost every other ability. Make your plan and set a timetable for its accomplishment in writing.

~Sterling W Sill

That man loves God who puts his own life in harmony with him, and who serves his fellow men as though his life depends upon it, as indeed it does.

~Sterling W Sill

I neither look up to the rich or down to the poor.

~Sterling W Sill

One of the greatest abilities is to be able to take criticism

~Sterling W Sill

Everything depends on attitude. We are ambitious or lazy, enthusiastic or dull, loyal or undependable, according to our attitude.

~Sterling W Sill

God did not intend that we should be cowards, or delinquents, or fools, or sinners or weaklings. He created us in his own image and commanded us to be men.

~Sterling W Sill

Next to the human spirit the human body is the most marvelous of God's creations.

~Sterling W Sill

Discouragement is an attitude.
