Being the father of girls is a kind of illness, in its own way - since any guy who has tried to live in a house with a wife and two daughters is, without any doubt, going to go certifiably nuts.

~Steve Schirripa

I tell my kids, 'I'm your father, not your friend - but I'm also the best friend you're ever going to have because no one is going to care for you the way I care about you.'

~Steve Schirripa

As far as my own life goes, I don't buy into the Hollywood scene.

~Steve Schirripa

There's no such thing as quality time; there's only quantity time.

~Steve Schirripa

I read a lot of true-crime books, but sometimes they can put you in a bad mood.

~Steve Schirripa

I've been offered 'Celebrity Fit Club', where you have to take off your shirt and get on a scale. I got kids, man. I'm not going to humiliate myself. I'd rather drive a cab.

~Steve Schirripa

Moms and daughters can negotiate over anything, and they can go on longer than it took to settle the Vietnam War.

~Steve Schirripa

Sometimes being a dad is like watching a ping-pong match.

~Steve Schirripa

Kids don't come with an instruction manual. So if you're gonna make mistakes, at least make them your own way.

~Steve Schirripa

David is the show. There are other writers, but it's David's vision.

~Steve Schirripa

I've worked too hard all my life to have my kids control my life.

~Steve Schirripa

I'd like to form a club just for fathers. Specifically, fathers of daughters. There would be lots of overstuffed leather chairs, wood paneling, dim lights. The works.

~Steve Schirripa

Everybody thinks they have the answer to how to be a good parent. Here's mine: Everybody's gonna make mistakes.

~Steve Schirripa

If it's time for your character to go, it's time for your character to go - you know what I mean? That's it. It doesn't matter who you are.
