I'm stupidly curious. I will go and touch anything until I find out that it's very harmful.

~Steven Yeun

Maybe it's a cultural thing, being Korean, but my first reflex has always been to exude humility - but it doesn't help you in acting. For acting, humility isn't the best thing. It'll weaken your work.

~Steven Yeun

At the end of the day, if you can't say a line right, it does not matter who your contacts are.

~Steven Yeun

I've always loved drama. This is a blessing because I can show a little bit of what I can do, and hopefully more, in the future.

~Steven Yeun

Yeah, it's scary. During filming, it wasn't just jitters from being the newer guy there or the greenest guy there. It was also fear of not messing up such an important character.

~Steven Yeun

I want to stretch myself. Another reason why I'm so fortunate is that this is a drama and I've been brought up in comedy.

~Steven Yeun

I was a psych major in college and I actually owned two white lab rats. I had to train them and I took them home so that's just kind of missing for me.

~Steven Yeun

I'm good at keeping secrets, but if it's not something super serious I usually tell people not to tell me because I'll tell someone else.

~Steven Yeun

I'm not much of a horror fan. When it comes to ghost stuff and demon stuff, I can't watch that.

~Steven Yeun

I took up boxing to get in shape for filming because it's grueling - all the running, the heat, the yelling, the crying that we do.

~Steven Yeun

What brought me to L.A. was work! I moved to Chicago after college - I went to Kalamazoo - did my nerd thing, graduated, and moved to Chicago to pursue improv.

~Steven Yeun

I was raised in a Christian household and heard a lot of praise music, so that's what helps me get to an emotional place.

~Steven Yeun

Many people, not just Asians, are more concerned with hustling and getting to meetings with contacts to gain success.

~Steven Yeun

I'm Korean-American. Not Colombian. My parents are first-generation, and I'm like... in-between, because I moved over here when I was four or five.

~Steven Yeun

I am a huge Pistons fan. Those were some of my best times in college, watching the Detroit Pistons.

~Steven Yeun

If you work in Chicago in the improv scene, anyone is happy for you if you get a job.

~Steven Yeun

I grew up in Michigan, so I played hockey, football and basketball. I played a little bit of lacrosse, too. My brother played more lacrosse and ran track.
