World*

You are about to enter the realms of human beings. Be prepared for cruelty and kindness, for friendship and hatred. People are made of all possibilities and conditions.

~Stuart Hill

But leave us some magic in the world. Leave us some mystery to enjoy.

~Stuart Hill

Madness was only a handicap only if you couldn't control its irrationalities.

~Stuart Hill

A conflagration always made such a nice backdrop to a battle. Fire made everything so much more joyously apocalyptic.

~Stuart Hill

If you reach for the stars, you just might land on a decently sized hill.

~Stuart Hill

To a happy war!' laughter echoed with all the insane glee of an army of psychopaths.

~Stuart Hill

One of the most important lessons she'd recently learned was that looking strong and confident was sometimes all the people required of you.

~Stuart Hill

Why else is politics the perfect refuge for every liar, cheat, and self-serving toad that was ever born? All you need is a good set of teeth and the ability to smile convincingly with them. --Cressida

~Stuart Hill

Thanks, Dad," she whispered in his ear. Then recovering her composure, she knelt before him and said, "I give thanks, my Father. May your decision be proved right and true.
