I don't like cheap shots, I really don't.

~Susan Estrich

But here's my point to the LA Times. If you had a serious story to run, if you thought there was serious misconduct, you don't wait until the Thursday before the Tuesday. You run it early.

~Susan Estrich

Half of me knows too much to be carefree. But the other half knows enough to be grateful.

~Susan Estrich

Affirmative action was never meant to be permanent, and now is truly the time to move on to some other approach.

~Susan Estrich

So many of us had hoped that the civil system might be an alternative for some women, where the burdens were a little bit less, and cases might be easier to prove.

~Susan Estrich

Gore will not win a popularity contest, he will not win a personality contest, but he can win an ideological battle, and he can win a battle of experience.

~Susan Estrich

Everybody knows I'm a Democrat.

~Susan Estrich

I've been doing these conventions for 20 years, and we used to at least have debates about issues. Nothing is happening basically at this convention, other than speeches.

~Susan Estrich

People don't vote for vice president, they vote for president.

~Susan Estrich

The politics of crime is not about a party's record or a candidates proposals, but about perceived character and values.

~Susan Estrich

Loyalty isn't standing by someone when he's right - that's good judgment. Loyalty is standing by someone when he's wrong.

~Susan Estrich

One of the risks of a public trial is a public verdict.

~Susan Estrich

In most presidential elections, the taller candidate wins.

~Susan Estrich

People hate negative tactics, but the fact is, as the 3 a.m. ad demonstrates, they can be very effective.

~Susan Estrich

Even the most powerful women I know go out of their way to say that they're not really interested in power. Imagine a man saying that.

~Susan Estrich

The personal is political, but only to a point.

~Susan Estrich

A lot of Republicans are white Christians, but the Republican Party is reaching out to Hispanics, and reaching out to blacks, and reaching out to Asians.

~Susan Estrich

Are Republican women politicians more feminine than Democratic women politicians?

~Susan Estrich

When a father climbs a dangerous mountain and dies, we mourn.
When a mother does, we question her judgment. How could she?

~Susan Estrich

Perhaps the cruelest thing ever said of Hubert Humphrey was that he had the soul of a vice president.

~Susan Estrich

I'm always suspicious of really beautiful women telling us we shouldn't be worried about beauty.
