We all go through the same things - it's all just a different kind of the same thing.

~Susan Glaspell

Be the most you can be, so life will be more because you were.

~Susan Glaspell

Not having children makes less work-but it makes a quiet house.

~Susan Glaspell

There is good and there is bad in every human heart, and it is the struggle of life to conquer the bad with the good.

~Susan Glaspell

Even though you've given up a past it hasn't given you up. It comes uninvited - and sometimes half welcome.

~Susan Glaspell

Those who never sail stormy waters are the quickest and harshest judges of bad seamanship.

~Susan Glaspell

The only man who knows just what he thinks at the present moment is the man who hasn't done any new thinking in the past ten years.

~Susan Glaspell

What we seek we do not find - that would be too trim and tidy for so reckless and opulent a thing as life. It is something else we find.

~Susan Glaspell

What is a clock? Something agreed upon and arbitrarily imposed upon us. Standard time. Not true time. Symbolizing the whole standardization of our lives.

~Susan Glaspell

But mayn't desertion be a brave thing? A fine thing? To desert a thing we've gone beyond - to have the courage to desert it and walk right off from the dead thing to the live thing - ?

~Susan Glaspell

To cease to love -- that is defeat.

~Susan Glaspell

We are living now. We shall not live long. No one should tell us we shall live again. This is our little while. This is our chance.

~Susan Glaspell

Resentment opens no door and breeds no courage.

~Susan Glaspell

What men have thought about life in the past is less important than what you feel about it to-day.

~Susan Glaspell

It is through suppression that hells are formed in us.

~Susan Glaspell

A clock is a little machine that shuts us out from the wonder of time.

~Susan Glaspell

I can't think of any sorrow in the world that a hot bath wouldn't help, just a little bit.

~Susan Glaspell

They made small effort to cover their raw souls with the mantle of commonplace words.

~Susan Glaspell

Seems nothing draws men together like killing other men.

~Susan Glaspell

As I grow older, I think friendship between women is a thing to cherish.

~Susan Glaspell

Strength diminishes when it seems we are spending it in vain.

~Susan Glaspell

... you can't put out a light just because it may light the wrong person.

~Susan Glaspell

Im an American. Weve translated democracy and brotherhood and equality into enterprise and opportunity and success - and thats getting Americanised.

~Susan Glaspell

That's the worst of a war--you have to go on hearing about it so long.

~Susan Glaspell

There's one form of immortality I like to think about. It's that all those who from the very first have given anything to the world are living in the world to-day.

~Susan Glaspell

I am glad I worked on a newspaper because it made me know I had to write whether I felt like it or not.

~Susan Glaspell

Chicago is many things to many people, and to me, it is a place where you can write.

~Susan Glaspell

Defeat furnishes good material to the poets and the artists, but none of us care to have the glory of the conquered apply to us.

~Susan Glaspell

Some days are happy days - of themselves, as if for their own sakes. They seem to be enjoying themselves, regardless of what use may be made of them.

~Susan Glaspell

The facts of another's life do not illumine. Only when we know the heart can we know that life. Only the feeling that made the days can light them.

~Susan Glaspell

Hurts of childhood live on; in one form or other they are there to the end.

~Susan Glaspell

I go about in the world - free, busy, happy. Among people, I have no time to think of myself.
