She thought of how much people changed you. It was the opposite of what you always heard, that no one could change a person. It wasn't true. It was only through other people that one ever did change.

~Susan Minot

There is no good reason. Don't waste your life waiting for good reasons...You'll wait and wait.

~Susan Minot

There are aspects of love that I once undervalued. Kindness. Having a sort of honor when love is on the table.

~Susan Minot

Desire suppressed finds its way into other more surreal settings, into dreams.

~Susan Minot

Between children and parents there is a difficulty of seeing each other simply as people.

~Susan Minot

Off the packed trail we experience the miracle of corn snow, skiing atop the crust, like skiing on an eggshell that has been sprinkled with sugar.

~Susan Minot

Recording a scene with paint rather than film sinks you more deeply into your surroundings. You have to look a little harder and a little longer. And you end up with a memento.

~Susan Minot

A struggle, to the person experiencing it, is a struggle.

~Susan Minot

I first travelled to Africa at the end of 1996 and was immediately captivated. I had planned on a three-week trip, and I ended up staying two months.

~Susan Minot

Change and renewal are themes in life, aren't they? We keep growing throughout life.

~Susan Minot

Illness can make us behave in the most surprising ways.

~Susan Minot

When a person you love moves by you with flat eyes that will not see you, it is a shock to believe it.

~Susan Minot

...[She] felt as if she were both a stranger to herself and more herself than she'd ever been.

~Susan Minot

I would have fallen in love with you anywhere.

~Susan Minot

Boy poison - a boy's kisses were like a poison, which infected you and after you were exposed you craved more, like an addict.
