Though we do need more women to graduate with technical degrees, I always like to remind women that you don't need to have science or technology degrees to build a career in tech.

~Susan Wojcicki

Work smart. Get things done. No nonsense. Move fast.

~Susan Wojcicki

From phones to cars to medicine, technology touches every part of our lives. If you can create technology, you can change the world.

~Susan Wojcicki

Things are always changing. Part of being successful here is being comfortable with not knowing what's going to happen.

~Susan Wojcicki

I love taking an idea... to a prototype and then to a product that millions of people use.

~Susan Wojcicki

I'm excited about the opportunities with mobile phones and being able to receive information on the go and relevant to what I'm doing at that moment in time.

~Susan Wojcicki

I have had a lot of setbacks that I have learned from.

~Susan Wojcicki

It's important for me to show my children the richness of life and be a role model. I find that my organizational and management skills are tested more at home than at work!

~Susan Wojcicki

People at different stages of their lives are doing different things, and they're all using Google.

~Susan Wojcicki

Engineering is a jeans and hoodie culture, and sales is more formal.

~Susan Wojcicki

Right now, offline and online are coming together because of smartphones.

~Susan Wojcicki

My most radical shift was leaving Intel and joining Google, a small startup at the time, even though I was pregnant.

~Susan Wojcicki

Google is fascinating, and the book isn't finished. I'm creating, living, building, and writing those chapters.

~Susan Wojcicki

The main motivations were to try to leverage Google's expertise with large computer systems and to try to give something back to science

~Susan Wojcicki

There are unlimited opportunities for display advertising. In fact, we're in the process of massive change in the display industry - how it's bought, how it's sold, and how it's targeted.
