Dare, dream, dance, smile, and sing loudly! And have faith that love is an unstoppable force!

~Suzanne Brockmann

That's actually kind of scary. Sex with a mime. Do I have to pay extra to make sure you don't do the trapped-in-a-box thing while we're doing it?

~Suzanne Brockmann

Recovering from a gunshot wound is not a vacation. You need to, like, write that on your hand or something.

~Suzanne Brockmann

My favorite color is you.

~Suzanne Brockmann

No doubt about it, Lawrence Decker was the reason God had invented nakedness.

~Suzanne Brockmann

Sometimes it takes you awhile to get to it, but you always get there, and what you say is always worth waiting for.

~Suzanne Brockmann

I love the fact that so many of my readers are intelligent, exceptional, accomplished people with an open-minded love of diversity.

~Suzanne Brockmann

What do you think, Ronnie? Do you think we could stop after just one kiss?

~Suzanne Brockmann

My glass is not only half-full, it holds five-hundred-dollar-a-bottle Dom Perignon champagne.

~Suzanne Brockmann

-When I was growing up, Lieutenant Uhura was a major role model for me, a strong black woman on the bridge of a starshipâ€¦ -In a miniskirt, answering the interplanetary telephone?

~Suzanne Brockmann

Two Navy SEALs versus one angry seven-month-old," he mused, "The odds could go either way.

~Suzanne Brockmann

He wanted to wake up to her smile every day for the rest of his life, like some stupid coffee commercial on TV.

~Suzanne Brockmann

Life. Unfair and painful at times. But always moving forward, always shifting, changing, with times relentless passage smoothing down jagged parts until it no longer hurts quite so much to breathe.

~Suzanne Brockmann

Forget about writing to Penthouse. This one was going to be a story for their grandkids.

~Suzanne Brockmann

If he's at this party, I want you to stay far away from him." "Shouldn't that rule apply to you, and Jules, too? Unless your penises make you magically bulletproof.

~Suzanne Brockmann

This wasn't Weirdville, this was fricking Wonderland. Alice here was all grow up, but she was still chowing down on too much of that psychedelic mushroom.

~Suzanne Brockmann

He spoke in telegram-as if every word he used cost five bucks, and he only had a twenty in his wallet.

~Suzanne Brockmann

That leaves Decker and what's his name, Mr. I'm Too Sexy for My Shirt.

~Suzanne Brockmann

...there's no such thing as an underwear elf. Even when it goes missing, it's somewhere in the room. So make sure you find it." --

DARK OF NIGHT by Suzanne Brockmann

~Suzanne Brockmann

If you want, I can carry you" "I'm fine," she said shortly. "Let's go." He'd said that wrong. He should have said, "I want to carry you."

~Suzanne Brockmann

"I'm going to carry you now," he told her, "so we can move even faster. I'm not asking you, I'm telling you. Any response from you is unnecessary and unwelcome."

~Suzanne Brockmann

You couldn't attach a 'but' to 'I love you'. You could only attach an 'and'.

~Suzanne Brockmann

"Everything in my life has been leading up to this," he whispered. "Everything that's happened, everything I've done has been worth it because it's brought me here."

~Suzanne Brockmann

The lust and attraction are often a given in a romance novel - I want to dig into the elements of true friendship that form a foundation for a solid, gonna-last-forever romantic relationship.

~Suzanne Brockmann

Marriage equality is coming, and not merely to a theater near you.

~Suzanne Brockmann

I'm a fan of meeting readers face to face, at reader events, where we're able to sit down and take some time to talk.
