

Tad Williams

Quotes

Men, Lying, People, Stronger, Heart, Thinking, World, Real, Honesty, Gone, Hero, Stories, Want, Strange, Princess, Feet, Trying, Sunrise, Teeth, Grandparent

You are only a prisoner when you surrender.

~Tad Williams

...Coca-Cola and fries, the wafer and wine of the Western religion of commerce.

~Tad Williams

Confident. Cocky. Lazy. Dead.

~Tad Williams

Though talent is wonderful, dance is 80% work and 20% talent.

~Tad Williams

Every time we tell a lie, the thing we fear grows stronger.

~Tad Williams

A well-aimed spear is worth three.

~Tad Williams

Never trust people that like to call things by initials, that's my philosophy.

~Tad Williams

Sleep. To lie down and shut out the noise, the fear, the unceasing misery.

~Tad Williams

If the bears don't get you, it's home.

~Tad Williams

When your teeth are gone, learn to like mush.

~Tad Williams

Every man is the hero of his own song.

~Tad Williams

Remember that each light between sunrise and sunset is worth dying for at least once.

~Tad Williams

As for monkeys, I would have five, and they would be named: See No Evil, Hear No Evil, Speak No Evil, Do Pretty Much Whatever The Hell You Want, and Expensive Attorney.

~Tad Williams

The wisdom of our parents, grandparents, ancestors. In each individual life, it seems, we must first reject that wisdom, then later come to appreciate it.

~Tad Williams

Not everyone can stand up and be a hero, Princess. Some prefer to surrender to the inevitable and salve their consciences with the gift of survival.

~Tad Williams

You have to go down before you can come out â€” that's how these things always work.

~Tad Williams

People in science fiction flicks always seemed to know useful things about the places time travel took them. But what if the time traveler had been only an average history student? What then?

~Tad Williams

He had once thought it was strange to have a friend you'd never met. Now it was even stranger, losing a friend you'd never really had

~Tad Williams

So we face our final hours...and all that was once certain has become uncertain. Except for defeat. That, as always, is the end of all our stories.

~Tad Williams

Has everyone gone mad? • Everyone was mad already, my lady, • Cadrach said with a strange, sorrowful smile. • It is merely that the times have brought it out in them.

~Tad Williams

Wicked Tribe, Rooling Tribe! is the mejor hacker tribe. Too small, too fast, too scientific!

~Tad Williams

Humans turn the places they live into great crowded piles of mud and stone, like the nests termites build--but what happens when in all the world there are termite hills left but no bush?

~Tad Williams

Tangaloor, fire-bright Flame-foot, farthest walker Your hunter speaks In need he walks In need, but never in fear.

~Tad Williams

Dying men think of funny things-and that's what we all are here, aren't we? Dying men.

~Tad Williams

The world was all mud and wire. The war in the heavens was only a faint imitation of the horror men had learned to make.

~Tad Williams

When it falls on your head, then you are knowing it is a rock.

~Tad Williams

Whatever my ancestors did to you, none of them consulted me.

~Tad Williams

Weak dogs become bones for other, stronger dogs.

~Tad Williams

She had to find her own story, and she could make it whatever shape she thought best.

~Tad Williams

The man who lives beside the water hole does not dream of thirst.

~Tad Williams

I must make a choice every time I speak a sentence in English. I try to choose the happier way of saying things, so that my own words will not weigh me down like stones.

~Tad Williams

Honor is the only really good disguise for an occasional act of dishonor.

~Tad Williams

We are none of us promised anything but the last breath we take.

~Tad Williams

Related Links:

- Men Quotes
- Lying Quotes
- People Quotes
- Stronger Quotes
- Heart Quotes
- Thinking Quotes
- World Quotes
- Real Quotes
- Honesty Quotes
- Gone Quotes
- Hero Quotes
- Stories Quotes
- Want Quotes
- Strange Quotes
- Princess Quotes
- Feet Quotes
- Trying Quotes
- Sunrise Quotes
- Teeth Quotes
- Grandparent Quotes