

Ted Malloch

Quotes

*Spiritual, Goal, Economic, Moral, Excellence, Long, Selfish, Discipline, Way, Biblical, Adversity, Pillaging, Function, Economy, Attributes, Exercise, Wealth,
Smart, Social, Matter*

Profitability is the consequence of doing business in the right way, to honor God.

~Ted Malloch

Capitalism is about the mutual creation of wealth rather than the pillaging of it.

~Ted Malloch

Leadership, in other words, is a matter of character, not goals.

~Ted Malloch

Discipline is the virtue that begins in obedience and flowers in self-control.

~Ted Malloch

The moral sentiments that constrain economic life also promote it.

~Ted Malloch

When people freely identify with their work and find themselves through it, excellence follows.

~Ted Malloch

Spiritual entrepreneurship is the unsung route to growth in the modern economy.

~Ted Malloch

Courage... is not a selfish attribute: it is only possible if you are pursuing a wider and more worthy goal.

~Ted Malloch

Taking faith seriously leads to the utility of altruistic behavior.

~Ted Malloch

Business is the real test of the moral life.

~Ted Malloch

Caring for God's endowment in a thrifty fashion is a form of biblical obedience.

~Ted Malloch

Attempts to secure an equal outcome always require unequal treatment of individuals.

~Ted Malloch

When all benefits are promised by the state, nobody need feel grateful for them.

~Ted Malloch

There's such a thing as spiritual capital that has economic function and potential.

~Ted Malloch

We prepare for success by acquiring virtues.

~Ted Malloch

The business virtue par excellence is honesty without it markets can't long survive.

~Ted Malloch

One runs a business ultimately to do well so you can do good for everyone.

~Ted Malloch

Profit doesn't appear as the goal but as a side effect of pursuing motivating principles.

~Ted Malloch

Success comes because you have found your ecological niche and can flourish by doing your own valuable thing.

~Ted Malloch

Faith engenders courage; and also requires it.

~Ted Malloch

An exercise of moral imagination helps companies further goals of its members.

~Ted Malloch

Perhaps the most eloquent of the hard virtues is courage, the disposition to encounter adversity head-on and strive to overcome it.

~Ted Malloch

Long-term success depends upon trust.

~Ted Malloch

Myth: There's conflict between selfish free markets and a benevolent world of human sympathy.

~Ted Malloch

The laws of economic life are subject to the eternal laws of spiritual capital.

~Ted Malloch

Three cardinal virtues of business: creativity, building community, practical realism.

~Ted Malloch

The free economy is not the enemy but the friend of social capital.

~Ted Malloch

Related Links:

- Spiritual Quotes
- Goal Quotes
- Economic Quotes
- Moral Quotes
- Excellence Quotes
- Long Quotes
- Selfish Quotes
- Discipline Quotes
- Way Quotes
- Biblical Quotes
- Adversity Quotes
- Pillaging Quotes
- Function Quotes
- Economy Quotes
- Attributes Quotes
- Exercise Quotes
- Wealth Quotes
- Smart Quotes
- Social Quotes
- Matter Quotes