The more the diamond is cut the brighter it sparkles; and in what seems hard dealing, there God has no end in view but to perfect His people.

~Thomas Guthrie

As in nature, as in art, so in grace; it is rough treatment that gives souls, as well as stones, their luster.

~Thomas Guthrie

Do it now. It is not safe to leave a generous feeling to the cooling influences of the world.

~Thomas Guthrie

A sunny temper [an attitude of gratitude for what blessings and mercies there are] gilds the edges of life's blackest cloud.

~Thomas Guthrie

More tears are shed in playhouses than in churches.

~Thomas Guthrie

Prayer flies where the eagle never flew.

~Thomas Guthrie

The Christian is not always praying; but within his bosom is a heaven-kindled love--fires of desire, fervent longings--which make him always ready to pray, and often engage him in prayer.

~Thomas Guthrie

Religion is the mortar that binds society together; the granite pedestal of liberty; the strong backbone of the social system.

~Thomas Guthrie

Heaven is the day of which grace is the dawn; the rich, ripe fruit of which grace is the lovely flower; the inner shrine of that most glorious temple to which grace forms the approach and outer court.

~Thomas Guthrie

The finest flowers of genius have grown in an atmosphere where those of Nature are prone to droop, and difficult to bring to maturity.

~Thomas Guthrie

The new novel is sought more eagerly, and devoured more greedily, the New Testament.

~Thomas Guthrie

The work that is done in love loses half its tedium and difficulty.

~Thomas Guthrie

The hope of immortality makes heroes of cowards.

~Thomas Guthrie

Lord, what wilt Thou have me to do?

~Thomas Guthrie
