The mistletoe hung in the castle hall, The holly branch shone on the old oak wall.

~Thomas Haynes Bayly

She wore a wreath of roses, The night that first we met.

~Thomas Haynes Bayly

Absence makes the heart grow fonder. Prolonged absence makes the heart forget.

~Thomas Haynes Bayly

Friends depart, and memory takes them To her caverns, pure and deep.

~Thomas Haynes Bayly

I'd be a butterfly; living a rover, Dying when fair things are fading away.

~Thomas Haynes Bayly

Fear not, but trust in Providence, Wherever thou may'st be.

~Thomas Haynes Bayly

The rose that all are praising Is not the rose for me.

~Thomas Haynes Bayly

I'm saddest when I sing.

~Thomas Haynes Bayly

Tell me the tales that to me were so dear, Long, long ago, long, long ago.

~Thomas Haynes Bayly

Oh! where do fairies hide their heads, When snow lies on the hills, When frost has spoiled their mossy beds, And crystallized their rills?

~Thomas Haynes Bayly

Why don't the men propose, Mamma? Why don't the men propose?

~Thomas Haynes Bayly

Those that have wealth must be watchful and wary, Power, alas!
naught but misery brings!

~Thomas Haynes Bayly

Surely 't is better, when summer is over To die when all fair things are fading away.

~Thomas Haynes Bayly

Oh, I have roamed o'er many lands, And many friends I've met; Not one fair scene or kindly smile Can this fond heart forget.

~Thomas Haynes Bayly

Oh, pilot! 'tis a fearful night, There's danger on the deep.
