What stands between heaven and earth is merely the acceptance of ourselves as apart of this world and our placement of ourselves.

~Timothy Treadwell

What I experienced with the bears where I discovered my true nature within myself, was not able to be discovered or experienced in this world in society.

~Timothy Treadwell

How much I hate the people's world.

~Timothy Treadwell

More and more people will now start realizing that we are actually equal to one another and that nobody will re-establish the balance or stability within this unless each and every one stands up.

~Timothy Treadwell

I'm in love with my animal friends.

~Timothy Treadwell

Nature and animals, especially living with them for as long as I have - gives you the gift of yourself, gives you the opportunity to discover and experience your own individual nature within yourself.

~Timothy Treadwell

The way before you is being prepared, so that you may stand up!

~Timothy Treadwell

Just because your direction has never been clear to you does not mean that you must give up.

~Timothy Treadwell
