I was born and raised in Nigeria. We lived in England when I was 3 and 4, and I would go to summer school every year in Switzerland.

~Toks Olagundoye

Not to be purple, but I've never been a 'bad boy' kind of girl. I like manners.

~Toks Olagundoye

I just have fun doing what I do. If it looks like a good time, I'm up for it!

~Toks Olagundoye

I'm more likely to try and tackle a fear than let it control me.

~Toks Olagundoye

Accents are very easy for me.

~Toks Olagundoye

When I'm just walking around, I swap between the British and the American, and when I'm with my family I'm with my Nigerian accent.

~Toks Olagundoye

I think I have a very strange, hybrid accent, and I've worked very hard to get a solid American accent, which is what I use most of the time.

~Toks Olagundoye

Comedy has always been something I love, but for some reason - probably because of the British accent - I've always been pushed toward more period work.

~Toks Olagundoye

My name is very specific to my family. I'm very proud of being Nigerian. I understand that most people can't pronounce it, but that's OK.

~Toks Olagundoye

With me, it's clothing and makeup and hair and all that stuff that inform how the character moves and feels.

~Toks Olagundoye

What's normal to you is normal to you.

~Toks Olagundoye

I love being an actor and a job is a job, and I'm always happy to have a job.

~Toks Olagundoye

There is so much wonderful stuff and so many amazing people in this world.

~Toks Olagundoye

People tend to comment on my feet a lot. In daily life.

~Toks Olagundoye

I don't drink coffee, but I'm a tea addict.

~Toks Olagundoye

I'm an avid shoe fan. I got my first pair of Louboutins as a birthday gift from Jami Gertz.

~Toks Olagundoye

You're able to do more when you're not clouded with wasted anxiety.

~Toks Olagundoye

I am Constantly afraid, but it's a big driving force in my life. I'm more likely to try and tackle a fear than let it control me.

~Toks Olagundoye

I don't believe in paying full price for clothing.

~Toks Olagundoye

I was a musical theatre geek in high school and college.

~Toks Olagundoye

I pretty much only wear high heels.

~Toks Olagundoye

When I'm in heels - and I live in heels - I take on a different posture, a different attitude, different energy.

~Toks Olagundoye

We are all different and that's okay.

~Toks Olagundoye

My accent has changed my whole life. When I was younger it was very Nigerian, then when we went to England it was very British.

~Toks Olagundoye

I've several times had jobs that I thought were going to be my big break, and it didn't pan out.

~Toks Olagundoye

I get to be goofy and quirky and sweet at the same time.

~Toks Olagundoye

All my friends are funny, witty, fun-loving people. As are my parents, and the people I work with. I get at least a couple of good laughs in every day.

~Toks Olagundoye

I identify myself as a Nigerian because that is where I was born and raised and where my family still lives.
