People can be cruelest to those they love.

~Veronica Rossi

Love was like the waves in the sea, gentle and good sometimes, rough and terrible at others, but that it was endless and stronger than the sky and earth and everything in between.

~Veronica Rossi

You can't be miserable when you're running. It's such a simple and pure way to feel alive.

~Veronica Rossi

How do you restart something that had never been turned off?

~Veronica Rossi

We all have the potential to do terrible things. But we also have the potential to overcome our mistakes.

~Veronica Rossi

Because people are more than emotions. People have thoughts and reasons for doing things.

~Veronica Rossi

Fear is dangerous. It sparks violence much faster than anger.

~Veronica Rossi

An oath is a promise-and a promise can be made regardless of feeling.

~Veronica Rossi

And it's always better, isn't it, when you discover answers on your own?

~Veronica Rossi

Try to sleep. Tomorrow's coming, whether we worry about it or not.

~Veronica Rossi

People are imperfect, but that doesn't mean they spoil like milk.

~Veronica Rossi

There was nothing more painful than hurting someone you loved.

~Veronica Rossi

There is no way forward that isn't through pain.

~Veronica Rossi

The more I try to catch up, the farther I fall behind.

~Veronica Rossi

A good dream was something you clung to until the last moment before waking.

~Veronica Rossi

If there was no fear, how could there be comfort? Or courage?

~Veronica Rossi

People who try to be nice are false. They're liars. You should never force your behavior to be a certain way. You should just be. Maybe it's not going to be nice, but at least it'll be honest.

~Veronica Rossi

Everyone feels lost and low. It's how a person acts that makes them different.
