In general, I think I'm a very private person. But I also love human beings.

~Victoria Legrand

My hair is a wild, untamable beast! I like letting it grow; my bangs grow whatever way they want and I kind of follow their rule. So side bangs, poof bangs - it's kind of unpredictable.

~Victoria Legrand

People who create art would be fools to assume they know exactly what people are going to think of it.

~Victoria Legrand

I think the Yamaha has a giant quality. When you combine the Yamaha with other organs, you get this crazy rectangular sound. It's kind of flat and thick.

~Victoria Legrand

I'm a Gemini, so I'm very dual. I love something and I hate it at the same time, so that probably comes out in the lyrics.

~Victoria Legrand

As you get older you realise that nothing lasts forever. It's not depressing, but it does make moments more intense.

~Victoria Legrand

Sound is a very unruly thing, and you have to really respect that it's going to differ every time you play.

~Victoria Legrand

I personally do not listen to a lot of music. It helps keep my mind free. I don't want to sound like someone else from the get-go. I want to express myself and the world in my head.

~Victoria Legrand

Sometimes people talk about music, whether blogs or magazines, in a strange way where it doesn't seem like they're actually listening to it.

~Victoria Legrand

Yeah, it's a lot harder to find a musical partner than a love partner.

~Victoria Legrand

If a psychiatrist would analyze [the lyrics], I'm sure they'd come up with something interesting. I really don't try to twist them. I don't want to slash things.

~Victoria Legrand

I truly believe that if you think something's stupid, that might mean it's actually good.

~Victoria Legrand

I really do try to let the identity or voice inside come out.

~Victoria Legrand

The guys in high school were like, "You've got a nice voice; you should keep singing," but I never honestly thought that one day I'd be a singer. When you're young, you don't see the signs.

~Victoria Legrand

I like to hear what other people's interpretations are, because people come up with things I'd never thought about.

~Victoria Legrand

I don't like to read the Internet; I'm not aware of what's going on.

~Victoria Legrand

Obviously, it's great to know that your music is being listened to.

~Victoria Legrand

When something goes into the world, you immediately begin to develop another perspective on yourself, another identity.

~Victoria Legrand

It's always a struggle to make things sound more or less brilliant.

~Victoria Legrand

But I love the hot sweat. I think overheating onstage is invigorating. It's better than being comfortable. I think being comfortable is the death of a show.

~Victoria Legrand

I don't wear dresses and flowers in my hair and float around!

~Victoria Legrand

I studied voice and piano as a child, although, at least with voice, you start over at puberty, because your voice completely changes.

~Victoria Legrand

As long as artists can make something, artists will continue to survive.

~Victoria Legrand

There's something to be said for being classically trained on piano, but not having your whole makeup be tied to one instrument.

~Victoria Legrand

I think sometimes songwriting becomes diluted when you have lots of components to mask a lack of core.

~Victoria Legrand

I wouldn't mind doing a soundtrack someday.
