Every time someone ends a prayer in the Western world they say Amen - that is the name of an Egyptian god associated with completion. So we're still praying to their gods.

~Whitley Strieber

I wondered if I might not be in the grip of demons, if they were not making me suffer for their own purposes, or simply for their enjoyment.

~Whitley Strieber

In a reality made of energy, thoughts may literally be things. What if it was intended that we create our own realities after death?

~Whitley Strieber

God is wild; I am tame....Night falls and an age ends....We call and are answered through the thick foliage, by voices too strange to be our own.

~Whitley Strieber

No doubt, I won't be believed, and that's all right, because, in a sense, it leaves me free in ways that belief would not.

~Whitley Strieber

In them was not the savage blankness of the reptile species. Instead there was something far worse - burning, unquenchable rage mixed with the self-mocking irony of great intelligence.

~Whitley Strieber

I've got lots of books sitting here that have never been published because nobody could make any marketing sense of them.

~Whitley Strieber

I'm not so sure that horror should be dismissed as something less than literature.
