I am quite prepared, if we can do it without any disrespect to the Crown of England, to bring our titles to the marketplace and make a bonfire of them.

~Wilfrid Laurier

Canada is free and freedom is its nationality.

~Wilfrid Laurier

I am not here to parade my religious sentiments, but I declare I have too much respect for the faith in which I was born to ever use it as the basis of a political organization

~Wilfrid Laurier

Quebec does not have Opinions, but only sentiments.

~Wilfrid Laurier

If I were not French I would choose to be - Scotch.

~Wilfrid Laurier

We French-Canadians belong to one country, Canada: Canada is for us the whole world: but the English-Canadians have two countries, one here and one across the sea.

~Wilfrid Laurier

For us, sons of France, political sentiment is a passion; while, for the Englishmen, politics are a question of business.

~Wilfrid Laurier

The twentieth century belongs to Canada.

~Wilfrid Laurier

A colony, yet a nation - words never before in the history of the world associated together.

~Wilfrid Laurier

It would be simply suicidal to French Canadians to form a party by themselves.

~Wilfrid Laurier

The Englishman respects your opinions, but he never thinks of your feelings.

~Wilfrid Laurier

The Divinity could be invoked as well in the English language as in the French.

~Wilfrid Laurier

Whether splendidly isolated or dangerously isolated, I will not now debate; but for my part, I think splendidly isolated, because the isolation of England comes from her superiority.
