I tend to not try and listen to a lot of other artists while I'm writing, because if I hear something that's brilliant.

~William Beckett

I want to play a show at Madison Square Garden in New York, which is where the New York Knicks play. That's what I want.

~William Beckett

I'd say Ernest Hemingway would be a blast to get drunk with.

~William Beckett

People can smell the bullshit and see through the curtains. People know when something's real and when something isn't, and when some dude really means what he's saying or singing, or when he doesn't.

~William Beckett

I'm a goof. I talk too much. I tell stories. I tell cheesy Dad jokes. I'm theatrical and I'll mix things up and I'll surprise people. Those are the things that I just do because that's who I am.

~William Beckett

Hold your head high heavy heart.

~William Beckett

A true measure of success is just to work hard and get my music out there and just be myself and be real.

~William Beckett

I'm not bashing people who write songs that are just 'get on the dance floor and party party', I understand why people need those songs too, but I don't really write lyrics like that.

~William Beckett

I write songs so that people can make them into what it means to them as well.

~William Beckett

Johnny Depp and I think Woody Allen would be fun to hang out with.

~William Beckett

I'm not avoiding specifics, but I've always written songs from more of a global standpoint.

~William Beckett

Prose poetry is not set to a melody or music so there's something freeing about it.

~William Beckett

I think especially since going solo it's pretty clear that I'm completely being myself.

~William Beckett

I like films that go a little more daring visually, and story-based stuff that usually reflects pretty closely to what real life is.

~William Beckett

I read a lot of prose poetry and get inspired by more-so just a state of mind.

~William Beckett

I listen to a pretty wide variety of albums so as to get influenced by nothing particular.

~William Beckett

In the recording process I do listen to other artists a lot and other albums and albums I am loving lately, or ones that I still love that came out in the 80s or 70s.
