I would not call myself Catholic anymore, but I went to 16 years of Catholic school: grade school, high school and college.

~William Mapother

Every actor has their own method, so I'm not suggesting what works for me will work for everybody else.

~William Mapother

I was an English major, so I love discussing possibilities and alternate theories.

~William Mapother

I love sci-fi, especially when it thrives on a thought-provoking story, rather than explosions.

~William Mapother

I love classical music and often listen to symphonies or opera in the morning.

~William Mapother

I can be a bit of a science geek. I tend more towards reading about brain science, neuroscience.

~William Mapother

I guess every actor has certain emotions they can access easier than others.

~William Mapother

If you think about filmmaking as an entire spectrum, starting with the writer and ending with maybe the marketing department, the actor's contribution is a rather slender band.

~William Mapother

Generally a wise actor will be very careful about the person to whom he gives that power.

~William Mapother

Look, we all know how hard it is for us to - I'm going to speak for myself - find a still photo of yourself that you like. Like how many times do people send photos and you're like, "Oh burn it."

~William Mapother

I do like taking on responsibility, sometimes too much. But I was aware of that early on and it's something that came up in the previous set of interviews, and that is the actor's contribution.

~William Mapother

I feel honored to be a part of something that provided people with entertainment and that inspired conversations. I feel very, very fortunate.

~William Mapother

One of the great things about film is that, typically anything that's introduced in the first five minutes, the audiences will buy into.

~William Mapother

I went to Notre Dame. I don't know if that has any relevance, but maybe we all had a little too much philosophy and theology.

~William Mapother

I don't think that necessarily I was encouraged by the nuns and the priest to consider alternate possibilities to the universe.

~William Mapother

One of the great things about having been on Lost is people coming up and feeling so enthusiastic about the show and saying, "Oh it provided us so much entertainment," or "It inspired conversations."

~William Mapother

If you're going to do a guest spot on television, they need bodies on those procedural TV shows. You've got to keep working, and that's where a lot of the work is.
