My dad has always been really helpful. He taught me that talent is a bonus, but persistence is what wins out.

~Zosia Mamet

People idealize or reminisce about their 20s, but nobody tells you beforehand that it's hard and unglamorous and often very unpleasant.

~Zosia Mamet

I have a ship's bed, which totally plays to my obsession of, if I were not an actress, I would be a pirate.

~Zosia Mamet

A lot of people in line at the grocery store think that they know me, but they don't.

~Zosia Mamet

I am a private human.

~Zosia Mamet

My mom was onstage when she was pregnant with me.

~Zosia Mamet

We kept the old male ideas of success: power and money. We need new ones!

~Zosia Mamet

I grew up backstage and on movie sets, and I thought they were the most magical places on Earth.

~Zosia Mamet

I'm a little bit of a weirdo - I'm kind of a loner, I didn't go to college, I spend a lot of my time reading. I've been working since I was 17, so that's sort of been my life.

~Zosia Mamet

With 'Girls,' it doesn't really feel like I'm doing TV specifically. It just feels like we're making a really long film.

~Zosia Mamet

Comedy arises out of necessity, because some things are so dark that you have to laugh about it.

~Zosia Mamet

I did 'Mad Men' and I still have people come up to me like, 'Are you actually a lesbian?' Really? Just because I play one on TV? People will think what they're gonna think.

~Zosia Mamet

Give me an 18-hour day on set or in the theater, and I will be the happiest person alive.

~Zosia Mamet

I am an avid reader! As for writing, I might - someday. But we'll have to wait and see.

~Zosia Mamet

I don't know if I would call myself a religious human.

~Zosia Mamet

I think any actor in their right mind is afraid of getting pigeonholed.

~Zosia Mamet

I haven't found it to be particularly enjoyable... ninety percent of the time when I go on dates, I'm thinking, 'I could be reading my book instead.'

~Zosia Mamet

I would have been miserable in college. I always hated school.

~Zosia Mamet

No matter what we as individual women want, no matter what our goals, we have to support one another.
